10 Exceptional Millennial Artists to Watch in 2016

1. Julian Charrière, b. 1987

To borrow from the Guardian's Laura Cumming, artist Julian Charrière "brings back news from nowhere, returning with the very essence of the wild places he has travelled." Between excursions to Soviet nuclear test sites, and even a trip to Chernobyl, the interdisciplinary Swiss artist's risk-taking ventures yield fascinating results. At present, the artist is currently holding his first New York City solo exhibition at Sean Kelly gallery, which runs through October 22.
