

Editors. "8 Booths You Won't Want to Miss at Frieze New York 2019." artnet News. May 1, 2019.

artnet® news

8 Booths You Won't Want to Miss at Frieze New York 2019

Heading to Randall's Island for the 8th edition of Frieze? Before you catch the ferry, check out our list of must-see booths.

Lo and behold, Frieze New York has once again returned to Randall's Island and, as ever, the annual art-world staple is bringing out blue-chip galleries and frenzied fanfare.

In its 8th edition, the fair is introducing a few new elements to its programming, including the newly minted Diálogos section, which will highlight the works of Latinx and Latin American artists, and Possibilities of Creation, the fair's first VR exhibition. With over 150 galleries participating, there's more than enough to see over the four-day event. Before you leave the island, here a few booths you shouldn't miss.

Sean Kelly Gallery

Jose Dávila, Los Límites de lo Posible VII (2019). Courtesy of Sean Kelly Gallery.

Encompassing a range of media including photography, painting, and sculpture, the artworks on view with Sean Kelly Gallery are tied together by a shared intellectual rigor and meticulousness. The poetic large-scale color photographs of Alec Soth, the subject of the gallery's most recent exhibition, will be on view alongside works by Jose Dávila, Antony Gormley, Shahzia Sikander, among others.

Booth A9